Harvard Princeton Course on Companies, Offices and Showrooms and 1967 – 1989 Course on Running a Company, Images to be added

By Joel Schimmer

I. Companies are Joint Stock Companies.

I mean only joint stock companies here, just a company.

II. Offices come up around it.

I mean a office is what the company looks at. He then directs it. A process as well.

III. Showroom

Like a good showroom should be made.

IV. Teaching this a lot helps.

I teach how to manage a company, how to forward banking investments. I also mean I have legal papers. I am also fully aware of in fact working with people.

I mean have a holistic view.

Add photographs of a film and its complex footage.

Here point one is about companies and teaching. He is teaching the point to his compatriot, on how in fact accounts work. His second point (add image) is how the offices are organized as to work on he means “my point is anything at all, but my deal especially on shoes and branding it.” His third point is that it works as “making singular and cool things out of my company’s offices. Utopian images of their working lives. I like.”

His fourth point is to “grade in school ways the whole thing.”